SESF AND CRICKET AUSTRALIA TEAM UP FOR 3 YEARS

The Sports Excellence Scholarship Fund has today announced a partnership with the governing body of cricket in Australia that will span over 3 years. Together they will work to promote the message of the SESF to emerging talent from disadvantaged and low socioeconomic backgrounds, and help amateur cricketers access national competitions across the country.

Cricket Australia become the sixth national sporting organisation to partner with the SESF, who launched as a national charity in 2022. The SESF's mission is to support emerging talent in reaching their potential through alleviating the financial burden national competitions can entail, with the foundation aiming for 100 scholarship recipients to be participating in the Brisbane Olympics and Paralympics in 2032.

James Quarmby, Senior Participation Manager, Cricket Australia said:

“Cricket Australia is pleased to partner with the SESF for the next three years to provide support for junior cricketers that need it most.

“Many cricketers and their families know that the cost of travelling and equipment to national competitions can quickly add up and impede on their ability to achieve their dreams. The work that the SESF does is crucial for those individuals and their scholarships will help ease that burden.”

Nick Mooney, Executive Director, SESF said:

“The Sports Excellence Scholarship Fund is proud to be partnering with Cricket Australia for 2022 and beyond to support emerging cricketers and their families.

“Many students around the country need financial support to help them reach their full potential and achieve their sporting goals, and through this partnership with Cricket Australia, the SESF can continue to help reduce these financial barriers associated with national competition.”
